Uncle Zeke and Hulda Visit the Stores

Well, the old man staged a come-back this week and beat Hulda to it. He was all hurrar to get into the village on the weekly trip. Could hardly wait for wife to clean up the remains of dinner and slip into her go-visiting regalia. Guess the spring air is pepping up the old man, or it may be the molasses and sulphur. Discarding the red flannels and getting my head cleared after that night of smelting in Harrison may have something to do about it. "What's the big idea?" was Hulda's comment as I hustled her into the buggy. "Why this burst of exuberance?" said she as I hummed "The Flowers That Bloom in the Spring, Tra-la" as old Nell, the family nag, lumbered up on the black road to Norway village. Paint is the big thing at the Norway Furniture Co. Aero Spar varnish best for floors, outside work and other severe conditions sells in cans from 35c up, according to size. One gallon is $3.50. A special on unpolished easy chairs from broken sets are a bargain at $20 each. Choice of four colors in mohair, all new goods. A dustless mop for $1.25 has a coupon good for 8 teaspoons of the Rogers plate. This is a two-week offer.

The James Smith Shoe Store is ready for sports with boys' and youths' tennis shoes, strongly reinforced, for 75c. Athletic shoes, lace from toe, with special rubber sole, go for $1. Better ones are marked $1.50, for boys. Was shown a new heel protector for women who drive cars. The heavy calfskin slips over the heel and is held in place on the pump or oxford by a hook.

Hulda, who is foresighted, fished out a bundle from under the wagon seat. It contained my best suit, for the cleaning department at the L. F. Pike Co. Fred said the deal could be done for they have a die any cleaning, pressing, repairing, remodeling on a twenty-four hour service. Mr. Golub and John Pike are experts in that line. Ladies', men's and boys' garments are accepted. The store is open for Mercer of Auburn, who specializes in naptha cleaning on short notice.

In Ashton's I had another turn at the bat, much to Hulda's disgust. Again fishing tackle caught my fancy for there is some fine stuff ready for the early getters. Guess I'm not so old after all, for the baseball mitts, bats, cages, balls and other athletic equipment quickened the pulse. Darn it, in my day us grandies used homemade balls and bats. Feather ticks for the hands were unknown and masks had no place on the team. Youngsters are getting a soft handout these days.

McAllister's store just finished celebrating their first anniversary. Sunday was the end of their opening year, but the real business was done Saturday, especially during the evening, we were told. Hulda sampled some sherbet and maple-nut ice cream, to be the special next week end. Of course we lunched on those famous sandwiches that have made a name for the place.

Just peeped into Merchant's store where the clerks are arranging stocks for a big sale from Saturday, April 29, to Monday night, May 6. Zeb told us as he did last week, "This will be the most important selling event in this store since Dollar Day." Guess it will be the new goods included in the general line of women's and children's wear, marked below the regular fair price.

At the E. N. Swett Shoe Co., new dark brown tennis shoes with corrugated rubber soles for $1 fill one window. Men's two-tone sport oxfords are literally "shoes that breathe." Out-outs and holes in the uppers are there in the feet cool and comfortable, besides warding off the burns and stings. Hulda expressed her thanks for relief received on our visit last week. She had fallen arched, therefore a bad disposition at times. The analysis, a part of Natural Foot Health Week, made the whole family happy.

In Stone's my turn came at the bat and I hit for 1,000, because the fishing tackle fitted right into my scheme of things. While wife was poking around the jig-saw puzzles, I mentally picked out a reel or two, several lines, a few flies and a slick rod. Heddon casting plugs are there, so when the lake opens shall expect to lift a four pound red spot. Of course, all this may be a corn cob dream, for Hulda may say "No, sir!" and it means "No."

Ready for Fishin'?

If not, come in and look over our very complete line of Tackle. It's the best there is made at the lowest price.

Telescope Rods $1.35 to $5.00
Fly Rods $1.75 to $18.00
Casting Rods 75c to $3.50
Creels 69c to $1.50

Reels, Lines, Spoons, Trolls, Spinners, Hooks, Flies

WALKER'S FIELD DAY WENT STRONG

Rain failed to wash away the crowd and its enthusiasm Wednesday when the A. W. Walker & Son held their 27th annual field day. Some 600 men, women and children attended and spent much of the time under cover before dinner.

It was necessary to omit most of the field program but unusual activities were evident in the large storehouse where agricultural implements, machinery and useful accessories were arranged in attractive exhibits. Specialists were on hand and represented the John Deere Co., Niagara Dust and Sprayers, McCormick, International Harvester, Haskell Seed Co., International Fertilizer Co., Empire Millers, Eureka Mower and others.

In spite of uncertain conditions the stock was large and complete in every department with a basement of moving machines and horse rakes; a main floor crowded with milking machines, water systems, sprayers, etc., and the attic filled with plows, harrows, planters and lawn mowers.

Visitors came from every corner of Oxford County and adjoining towns. Two hundred cars and trucks were parked around the buildings and five one-horse outfits appeared in one corner of the corn factory shed. Number plates from California, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Jersey and New Hampshire were observed.

At noon doors in the corn shop picking room were thrown open for the dinner provided annually by the Burman & Morrill Co. Its year complimentary tickets were issued that afternoon to the first table set for 475 persons.

Some of the tables were set the second time for the overflow, but everybody was filled before the speaking. Frank Goldsmith, local superintendent of the Burman & Morrill Co. was in charge of this department. The best brand of beans and brownbread put up by the company were served together with salines, cheese, butter, coffee and cream. Pulp plates and tin dippers added to the camp style while corn boxes for seats completed the camp kit.

George L. Skinner, manager of the A. W. Walker Co. acted as toastmaster. He gave a brief address of welcome and introduced the speakers. Grant Wright of Philadelphia, Pa. now of Maine for a bit of time, fishing, urged the farmers to "clean up" and work for better times before the next field day. Mr. Wright is an editor and a professor in the National Farm School at Dorchester, Pa.

The principal speaker ex-Congressman Donald B. Partridge of Norway opened with a number of humorous stories then delivered a stirring appeal for patriotism and a shoulder to shoulder program regardless of political affiliations. He warned against subtle propaganda not in accord with our constitution and sure to undermine the country if carried out by a majority.

Thirteen members of the Agricultural class at Norway High School with the instructor, Edward H. Brown made a tour of inspection and picked up valuable information.

FINAL DEBATE

The Bates Interscholastic Debating League held its debates, Friday evening, at Bates College. There were thirty-two schools of the state represented. The South Paris high school alternative team composed of Laura Stearns and Ralph Silles, alternates, debated with Leavitt Institute and the negative team, Glenn Turner and Barbara Fuller, debated with Boothby Harbor and both teams won with a 2 to 1 decision. Laura Stearns was voted the best speaker. Miss Stearns and Mr. Silles had had only one week's training.
